ATIVE DAUGHTERS PLAN TO VISIT SACRAMENTO

El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, has ompleted arrangements for the attendance of its members at the State elebration, which will be held in Sacramento, September 8 and 9.

The celebration will commemorate he seventy-sixth birthday anniversary of California, and will be held in conjunction with the California State Fair, which will be in progress at the same time.

A unit of twenty-two girls, members of El Carmelo No. 181, are drilling every Friday evening, preparatory to making their initial public appearance in their new uniforms, in the Admission Day parade in Sacramento on this occasion. A parade, banquets, drills and contests are among the features of the program of the celebration, and our local drill team is putting forth every effort to win commendation and credit not only for the Native Daughters, but for our community as well.

Many members of the Parlor will accompany the drill team on this trip to Sacramento.

CHURCH WEDDING

On Wednesday, July 14, Miss Lena Bingmann became the bride of Willis B. Forbes, of South San Francisco. The wedding ceremony took place at the German Lutheran church, the Rev. Braam officiating. Mr. G. M. Cruse acted as best man, while Mrs. Cruse was matron of honor. After the ceremony the bridal party went to Mrs. Cruse's home, where they enjoyed a wonderful chicken dinner, after which the bridal couple left for a honeymoon trip to Portland, Oregon. They will return some time next week.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The cement curbing work has been started around the roads of the high school.

The backstops for the tennis courts are being erected.

The work of fixing the basement under the auditorium for a temporary auto shop is progressing rapidly.

By the time school starts on August 2, the school will be greatly improved. The work, however, wil not be completed until a few weeks after school commences.

ROBBER SUSPECTS ARE RUN DOWN

The two strollers who have been creating such an uproar in Daly City have been caught by the San Francisco police. Detectives C. A. Fogarty a..d H. Sturn, of the Ingleside station, came across the strollers last Sunday night. They had received the news that a home had been broken into on Tinkle avenue. They answered the call immediately, and as they were passing a home at 1936 San Jose avenue they found two men going in through a window. The men were placed under arrest, and after booking them at the Hall of Justice, Marshal Doyle was advised of the arrest.

Marshal Doyle notified several people whose homes had been robbed, and went with them to the Hall of Justice. Mrs. D. C. Treebey, of 910 Hanover street, on looking through the recovered jewelry, taken from the men, identified her wrist watch and one ring. Two stickpins, opera glasses and other jewelry were identifed by a resident of 68 Flournoy street, from whose home they had been stolen.

Marshal Doyle charged the two men with burglary, but the San Francisco officers are holding them on other charges. The San Francisco police and Marshal Doyle are still watching closely, as they believe there are more members of the gang.

AN OPPONENT'S TRIBUTE

The announced retirement of P. P. Chamberlain, treasurer of San Mateo county for forty-four years, causes a pang of regret in the hearts of the few remaining men who gave their time, energy and money to develope the charms of the beautiful county.

He was one of the natural leaders of men and the idol of women. He was more fortunate than others in having been a brave soldier in the Civil War, in being staltely and handsome, and maintaing the worthy reputation of always keeping his word. He was low voiced and cautious before speaking, but, having spoken, friends and foes knew there would be no deviation from the plans laid down.

His loyalty to his party was his governing principle. For him there never was any reason sufficient to sway him the very slightest from his faithful allegiance. He said to the writer, who is a Democrat, "I have no fear of your party; my only trouble is with the Republicans who won't stay where they belong."

Men who flopped from this to that he looked upon with suspicion. In this he was absolutely justified for such are never to be trusted. Each of them has some selfish object in view.

While the writer held the highest regard and admiration for the qualities of P. P. Chamberlain it became his duty as a leader of the Democrats to oppose him on several occasions and there were times when the campaign waxed quite warm.

Both traveled all over the county, more than once upholding contrary ideas and spending their own money. At such times how well Mr. Chamberlain danced, how discretely he spoke, how efficiently he accomplished his work. His opponent noticed all he did but never could find out actually what he was doing.

He was not always completely victorius. Sometimes there were breaks in his line and he felt every one of them keenly.

Occosionally, he met his opponent and their conversation would be very friendly. He was too great a man to harbor ill-feeling. Once after a hard fought campaign in which his side had lost heavily he said to the writer. "I own the best horse and buggy in Redwood City and now I tell you that it is your privilege to enjoy the pleasure of driving that horse and buggy any time you care to do so. I can not show you any higher respect."

The offer was so grand that it has never been forgotten, but for political reasons it was never accepted.

Another time a number of the writer's friends got into trouble over a fatality in a prize-fight. It became necessary for someone to go their bail to keep them out of jail. Supporters were appealed to in vain, but P. P. Chamberlain was not afraid. He kept them out of jail. Is it any wonder he never was beaten?

Now the contests are over. The softening influence of age has changed our feeling. There is no more partisan bitterness. For years the greatest friendliness has prevailed.

In conclusion let it be known as the highest honor that P. P. Chamberlain was always a superior man, one who never failed to keep his word.

There are very few like him.

W. J. SAVAGE.

An Enjoyable Party

Mesdames Hedvall, Goodfriend, White, Landini, Friman, Cook, H. H. Smith, Gehringer, Romer, Scott, Nelson, Rucker, Schnider, Twesten and Burdick met at Mrs. Burdick's home Tuesday evening. They played whist and enjoyed a most pleasant evening. Refreshments were served and everyone reported a most wonderful time.

EDUCATOR ENJOYS SOUTHERN OUTING

Having disposed of all pressing obligations coming up for attention at the middle of the month, the grip was made ready for the trip southward.

On Thursday, the sixteenth, the Santa Cruz bus was boarded and as the ride was made down the peninsula a feeling of rest and refreshment seemed to pervade all things, and in the mind the thought uppermost was what comfort and convenience public conveyances and good roads offer to everyone in this age.

After just about three hours of actual delightful, care-free riding, the traveler was deposited in front of the St. George's Hotel, Santa Cruz. It is all done so quickly and in such a matter of course way that it is hardly noticed although fully seventy-five miles have been covered.

Finding excellent accommodations at St. George's and visiting, once more, the Saddle Rock restaurant, still there was ample time to stroll down to the Santa Cruz beach and along the board walk, where the waves roll in gently, the electric lights beam, the chance venders proclaim their golden opportunities, and large numbers of change-seeking people sit upon the sand and listen to the program of singing.

The song that seemed to be the most popular that evening was "O, How I Need You Tonight."

Wandering along, it always a joy to meet someone known of old. How pleasant it was to meet Miss Kuck of Menlo Park, and James V. Swift of Redwood City, each in a different way recalling happy days long gone by, but memory of them adds to the pleasure of the present.

The next day a walk out the municipal wharf, where the fish markets are, gave one a whiff of the tang of the sea, and numerous amateur fishermen, casting their lines, patiently, attracted passing attention, although they are there, much the same, all the time, every year, and seldom catch any fish.

After the walk, when the beach was sun-warmed, with hundreds of laughing, shouting boys and girls the waves were dared, and for an hour or so the play in the surf was enjoyed. Then came a fish dinner at the St. Francis Grill, where no one was disappointed.

So much for the charms of Santa Cruz, although one could linger there for many days and always find interesting pastime.

At 5 o'clock the bus for Salinas was taken and in the beautiful evening the ride is decidedly ejoyable. This year the trees of the great apple orchards along the line seemed to be on the verge of breaking down with their burden of fruit. A fellow passenger, a strawberry plant man from Oregon, said that such was the condition of all the apple orchards of the whole country, and as a consequence a vast yet pitiful over-production is expected. Think of all the luscious apples that must go to waste for the want of demand.

Salinas was found gaily decorated for the annual rodeo. It is one of the enterprising and growing cities of this state. Its improvement is steady and rapid. The rodeo has become one of its permanent features. This year it attracted as many as 30,000 visitors, all of its accommodations being taxed to the utmost. In Salinas it was a pleasure to meet Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Church. The latter was formerly Miss Annie Lane of San Mateo county. She was glad to tell of her excellent family and considerable success. Her reminiscences were so interesting the hour of retiring was late that night. The prospects of the excitement of the rodeo were so alluring it was not easy to forego it all, with the hospitable friends pleading to become their guests, but the rest and sunshine of Tassajara were calling.

A telephone to Tassajara revealed a great disappointment. Two hundred guests were there, and not even one more could be taken.

So a new place had to be found for the outing. Communication with Paraiso Springs brought the information that there was ample room awaiting guests. To reach Paraiso is easy. One goes on the state highway from Salinas to Soledad (solitude) by stage, and from there to the springs by automobile. You see the southern end of the rich Salinas valley, where green fields of alfalfa afford rich pasturage for numerous herds of contented cows, and you the landed before you know it. Paraiso Springs are on the western side of the Salinas valley, at an elevation of 1,400 feet, with the towering San Lucia mountains just behind. The location is distinguished by numerous tall palm trees, a few of them said to be 100 feet high. Who planted these palms and when are questions of discussion indulged in under the shade of gossip rock. Tradition says they were set out by early, wise padres, who obtained their title to the twenty-two acres surrounding the springs from King Carlos of Spain.

Practical recounters of local history assert that the springs were not appraised for their curative powers until 1875, and that the sentinel palms are not more than forty-five years old, and that before 1875 the springs were only considered as a never-failing watering place for cattle, and as such they had a wide reputation. Believe the story you like the better, today Paraiso Springs deserves its reputation of being one of the popular health resorts of the state.

The waters coming out of the earth hot enough to bathe in have proven by example that they cure rheumatism, neuritis, all kinds of stomach and kidney disorders and many forms of skin troubles. In addition, unfortunates with mental diseases find relief through them.

Two baths a day are the rule, and drink copiously of the soda, the iron, the sulphur, and the arsenic waters, the more the better.

The cures accredited to the waters are, no doubt, assisted in a large measure by the wonderful location and climate of the neighborhood. A hard wind never blows there, but there is a circulation of the air evidenced by mysterious breezes. From earliest morning until evening the sun shines generously. In the morning, on account of the elevation, one may look upon a cloud of fog enshrouding the Salinas valley, just the opposite of the scene in Santa Clara valley, where the fog rests upon the tops of the western mountains and ne'er from its station descends.

West of Paraiso there is a vast extent of apparently barren mountains thinly clad with brush and stunted trees. There is a little grazing, here and there, the whole being called cattle ranges. Quite a few quails may be heard and seen. Signs of wild rabbits are noticeable to the hunter's eye. The musical sound of the dove's wing pleases the ear. Deer are to be seen frequently, and the local nimrods wait patiently for the open season, already having located the haunts of the bucks, whose antlers they intend to add to their already extensive display of trophies of the chase.

In this delightful location, eight days were passed, resting, reading, rejuvenating, and enjoying the humorous phases of the guests, among whom the Cohens and the Kelleys prevailed.

For the last two days Amby McSweeney and his better half added to the enjoyment with their presence. With them a Sunday trip was made to the Pinnacles, a wonderful freak of nature at the top of the San Lucia mountains on the eastern side of Salinas valley.

The caves and perpendicular walls of the Pinnacles are realy awe-inspiring, indeed, but they were a shade more than that to your visitors because that very morning there had been a pronounced shock of earthquake at Paraiso Springs.

RECKLESS DRIVER FACES JAIL TERM

Harold S. White, of 4053 Twenty-third street, San Francisco, faces a term of six months in the county jail as a result of his running down and seriously injuring Misses Cynthia Morgan and Dorothy Hayden, in this city on Sunday, July 11.

White's car, which it is claimed was traveling at a high rate of speed, left Mission street, and turned down Vista Grande avenue, breaking down the trees at the sidewalk and injuring Miss Morgan and Miss Hayden.

When White appeared before Judge Ellis C. Johnson last Friday for sentence, Judge Johnson sentenced him to six months imprisonment in the county jail, the extreme penalty for this offence.

Following the announcement of the judge's decision, White's attorney filed notice of appeal to the superior court and White was released on bail, pending the decision of the higher court.

TWO WOMEN ORDERED TO SEEK HOMES ELSEWHERE

Alice Brown, of 127 Los Banos avenue, was arrested Wednesday night on a charge of disturbing the peace, and when brought before Judge Ellis C. Johnson Thursday morning, was given the alernative of a jail sentence or leaving town within twenty-four hours. She elected to find a home elsewhere.

Mrs. Blanche Rowley, of Knowles avenue, was convicted of disturbing the peace when brought before Judge Johnson on Thursday, and on Friday was given a jail sentence, with the alternative of leaving town.

Secure Agency for Two Cars

The General Vulcanizing Works, located at 6267 Mission street, owned and operated by G. Bertuccelli and M. Garcia, have been fortunate in securing the agency for the Pontiac Six and the Oakland Six, two very popular automobiles. They have the new cars on display in their showroom, and an invitation is extended to their many friends in Daly City and Colma to drop in and inspect these cars. This enterprising firm is very optimistic with regard to the future of Daly City, and report that business has been exceedingly good since they opened up at their new location.

GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The subject for Sabbath evening, August 1, at Grace Presbyterian church will be, "The Joy of Getting Home." The people are coming back from their vacations now, and the music will be coming back to its old time ring, and we are always glad to see you. Why wait to go to church until you are dead?

Our Sunday school superintendent was not able to be with us last Sabbath, on account of the fire in his home on Saturday evening, which took the entire third story from his home, but we are sure he will be with us this Sunday, and so we want to give him a welcome.

The chief curse of the present age is that so few people see any wrong in anything that they wish to do or say.

In the atmosphere of the church you will become less critical, less pessimistic, and certainly more happy.

Some night thy soul will be required of thee, then whose shall all these excuses be?

We'll meet you at the church door.

Charles H. Gatchell, Minister.

Plan an Irish Dance

There will be an old time Irish dance given by Mrs. McDonald for the benefit of St. Maximus church on Saturday evening, August 7, in the Daly City Auditorium. Music by the famous Bert Scanlon's orchestra. There will be reels and jigs and songs between dances, so be on hand and enjoy a fine time. Tickets 50 cents.

TOWNS WILL SEEK NEW FRANCHISE

To comply with an act of the state legislature passed in 1881, and to leave no shadow of doubt as to the validity of the present franchise to build the Coyote Point bridge across the San Francisco bay, the backers of the $12,000,000 span will go before the San Mateo county board of supervisors and ask for a new franchise which will meet all technicalities of this ancient statute.

This announcement has been made by A. W. Duel, nationally known builder and construction engineer, and John G. McGrath, local promoter of the bridge project.

The act of 1881, providing that all bridge construction must have the approval of the state engineer and that all plans and specifications must be placed before the county board of supervisors before a permit can be issued, was recently brought back to life when the State Supreme Court upheld it in a controversy over some church property at Carquinez straits, near Dillon point.

The act specifically states that it applies to "bridges across a navigable stream, or a marsh, pond, estuary or arm of a bay outside of the line of navigation." This, it is stated, would not apply to the Coyote bridge, because this span is going across the main and navigable part of the bay. But the proposed bridge at Carquinez straits was also to be on the main part of the bay.

Thus the decision of the Supreme Court has cast a shadow of invalidity upon the present franchise held by Frank C. Towns, New York financier, and his associates.

Since there is twelve million dollars involved in the project, the sponsors of the bridge stated that the franchise and all legal angles of the project must be law-proof.

Therefore, the bridge promoters have asked the county board of supervisors for a new hearing on the franchise on September 20. In the meantime the whole bridge matter is before the war department, and Duel stated that the securing of the new franchise would not delay the project.

BRIDGE HEARING LEGALITY TEST

Legal protection to acts of the supervisors in connection with hearings on August 3 upon applications for bay bridge franchises will be afforded by the city attorney's office in accordance with a resolution adopted by the San Francisco board of supervisors last Monday.

Under this resolution presented by Supervisor Milton Marks, the city attorney is asked to look over all proceedings up to the present time and report on their legality. He is also asked to be present at the hearings to advise the board upon legal details. Representatives of the city engineer and the state engineer also have been asked to be present.

The supervisors on Monday also adopted a resolution endorsing the proposed bridge across the Carquinez straits, for which an application for franchise is now pending before the supervisors of Contra Costa county. This resolution was presented by Supervisor Richard Welch and will be set to the Contra Costa board.

ST. MAXIMUS GIRLS MEET

A meeting of the St. Maximus Girls' Club was held last Tuesday evening at the club rooms with President Helen Rode presiding. After a very interesting business meeting, refreshments were served by the committee consisting of Helen Rode, Marg O'Connor Louise Segale, Ada Johnston, Anna Kennedy, Loraine Wall and Loretta Johnston.

The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday evening, August 24, at 8 o'clock. The chairlady of the social committee for that night will be Miss Jess. Any young lady in the parish sixteen and over will be welcome to attend the meeting and social in the parish hall.

VETERANS PLANNING JOURNEY TO FRANCE

California veterans of the World war will meet in San Francisco tomorrow to plan their second journey abroad, scheduled for Paris, France, next year, when the American Legion will hold its annual national convention in that city.

U. S. Attorney General George J. Hatfield, of San Francisco, a member of the "On-to-Paris" travel committee, has received word that John J. Wicker, Jr., national travel director for the Legion's trip abroad, will be in San Francisco tomorrow for a conference with American Legion representatives from all parts of the state. At this time the final plans for the pilgrimage to France are to be made by the ex-service men.

OMAHA TELEPHONE GIRLS MAKE THRIFT BUILD HOME

With the savings from their salaries, two Omaha telephone girls have built and partly paid for a fine home in one of the exclusive residential sections, have furnished it and bought a car. They entered the telephone service thirteen years ago, when both became operators. Since then they have served as supervisors, chief operators, on the information board, and instructresses in the operators' school. One of them is now doing central office instruction work, and the other is a private branch exchange supervisor. The two girls are Miss Mary Darling and Miss Lulu Lutz.

REGAIN YOUR HEALTH

In these modern times everyone is looking for the thing that will improve his physical condition. Those who have given their digestive and nervous systems years of abuse through neglect, or, worse yet, the use of liquor or other stimulants, are waking up to the knowledge that such continued abuse will prove fatal unless checked, and the normal condition is regained. If the average person of intelligence would stop and consider he would know that in doing this he is slowly committing suicide. However, those who have become accustomed to the use of these injurious stmulants find it almost, if not wholly imposible to break off the habit formed. For these people there is relief and freedom from both the drink habit and the drug habit to be found in the Neal Institute, located at 1550 Fell St., whose phone number is Walnut 3851. Here the craving for liquor is entirely eliminated and the drink habit cured in three days. In the Neal Treatments no hypodermic injections are given, and all treatments are made along the lines of hydrotherepy and natural restorative principles. There are no injurious after-effects to follow, and every organ of the body is strengthened and re-vitalized by these treatments, which are easy to take, quick in results and in every case successful. Free consultations are given, and a circular will be mailed to any one on request. We are glad to recommend this Institute to those of our readers who are in need of such a service.

DO CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN?

Excellent, well-fitting clothes will distinguish a successful man from the common herd quicker than anything else. Everyone is judged by the clothes he wears, and the man who is wise will never wear a cheap, poorly made, ill-fitting suit or overcoat. The value of having only tailor-made garments is so great in proportion to the cost, that no one who wishes to make the most of his appearance will be contented with ready-made garments.

When planning on a new suit, it is of the greatest importance that a good tailor be selected to do the work. Many yards of material and hours of time can be lost by engaging a tailor who is only pasably good, or who tries to economize on labor or material at the customer's expense. A good, experienced, reliable tailor will serve you with honesty and judgment. He will be satisfied with nothing less than perfect fit and workmanship. Just such a tailor is Clancy, the Classy Tailor, located at 925 Market street, whose phone number is Prospect 2482. It is a well known fact that in this locality no finer tailor can be found, and that his forty-five dollar suits would be a real buy at sixty dollars. His materials are always of the best and he is one in whom you can feel confidence. In other words, when you put on a "Clancy made" suit, you don't think you look right, you KNOW it. For many years he has been serving the men of this region and he has a wide reputation for high class work and fair dealing.

The work turned out by Clancy, The Classy Tailor, is the best, and his many satisfied customers testify to his excellent workmanship and reasonable prices, and we are pleased to mention Clancy, The Classy Tailor, in this review. —Adv.

THE ARTISTIC WINDOW

It has been said that windows are the soul of a room. At any rate they are its brightest spot and should be re-dressed occasionally with something fresh and light. Color always adds to the beauty of the home. A breakfast room is pretty with dainty white curtains, but the same room with curtains of lemon-yellow organdie or some other colored material has a cheerful and sun-like glory that is charming to say the least. There are curtains of modest, unusual fabrics that rival costly stuffs in effectiveness. Whether of modest kind worked out along original lines, or the more expensive materials, certain it is, that curtain fabrics were never more lovely, than at this time. The rich, heavy damasks, as well as the sheer, gossamer glass curtains, have a charm they have never shown before. A shop that specializes in artistic window decorating is the N. J. Beechinor Co., located at 2169 Mission St., whose phone number is Hemlock 2959. Here may be obtained charming ruffled bedroom curtains in all the dainty shades of blue, green, orchid and other desirable colors. There is also a wide selection of drapery materials, glass curtain goods, and cretonnes in a wide range of patterns. The prices at the N. J. Beechinor Co., are always very reasonable, and just now many special values are being offered. This progressive store is filling a large place in the housewife's needs, and we feel that it is deserving of special mention in this review of the prominent concerns of this locality.—Adv.

INVESTMENT COMPANY

The matter of safe investment is a most important one, and is a service that requires experience as well as reliability. The offices of Howard F. McCandless & Co., located in the Standard Oil Building in San Francisco, whose phone number is Sutter 1700, is at all times in charge of people who are thoroughly conversant with every feature of the service, and many clients have found that selection of approved securities here is a very simple matter. Their service is courteous and complete and is based upon the most straightforward terms.

They are always willing to go over any matter with their clients, and without any obligation to the customer they are pleased to furnish any information you might desire. In this day and age, safe investments are a necessity, and a reliable service which provides just the proper bond or other security under each an every circumstance is much to be desired. Howard F. McCanless & Co., specializing in Railroad bonds, is up to the minute with information concerning that particular class of bonds. Along with this they have a capable staff for taking care of any other particular class of bonds that any client might be interested in, and everyone is invited to take advantage of this service. Whatever proposition you may have in mind related to finance comes within the province of their service to the public.

We wish to compliment this firm and its management upon the valued co-operation they are rendering the public, and we wish to say right here that this assistance is one that is most essential and is given in an admirable manner. Readers of this issue will find a call at this office both interesting and profitable, and you can depend upon the advice, information and service they offer. No matter what information you may desire or under what circumstances you wish to consult them in the matter of service, you will find that when you have gone to this firm you have placed the matter in able and competent hands. —Adv.

MOST ESSENTIAL UTENSILS FOR TOURING

Tent and Cooking Kit Are Important for Camping Out.

Camping out is one of the great privileges available to all who motor and at this season thousands of motor car owners are planning their expedition afield.

For those who expect to enjoy camp life for the first time, the Touring Bureau of the National Automobile club, California, issued a few suggestions. Here they are:

Travel light, is the first rule of camping equipment. Don't attempt to carry all the household furniture along if you really want to enjoy your outing.

The essentials include a good tent or a comfortable bed arrangement within the car; a good stove, beds and bedding, a compact kit of kitchen utensils and a few tools.

Good Tent Essential.

The choice of a tent is important. The tent should be light, compact and easily erected. A canvas floor is well worth while and tent pegs should be of metal. Cots, folding into small form, are better than heavier springs.

Folding mattresses add to the comfort of the night's rest. Blankets are easily carried and pack well. Take plenty of bedding, as nights in the mountains even in midsummer are usually cool.

The real woodsman would probably scorn an up-to-date stove of the gasoline type such as is now turned out by the camp goods factories, but wood is scarce in many of our forest reserves, and the path of easiest resistance is to provide yourself with a dependable stove with folding oven attached. The gasoline stove is ideal, particularly for short trips, and the camp fire doesn't have to be disturbed for meals.

Cooking Kit.

A complete cooking kit of aluminum utensils nesting into the largest pan makes for camp efficiency and occupies the least room. Food should be carried in tin cans and a vacuum bottle comes in handy for a hot lunch along the way between camp grounds or out on a hike.

Don't carry with you articles of value. It's far cheaper to invest in a complete camp cooking outfit and use it only for camping expeditions than to leave some of the family silver out in some remote part.

A water bag should be a part of the camp equipment, and extra gasoline and oil carried on the running board is a safeguard against trouble and delay.

The lighter you travel, provided you have the essentials along, the easier it will be on car and passengers and the more enjoyment you will get from your expedition.

LEFT SIDE SAFE ON THE HIGHWAY

With the summer outing season in full swing, pedestrians on the highways are urged to follow the rule of walking on the left side, in a Minnesota highway bulletin.

"Walking on the left side of the road has been advocated for some time by police and highway officials who have made a study of automobile accidents, yet a large number of people continue to use the right side of the road when walking," says the bulletin. This makes it impossible for them to see vehicles approaching on their side of the road. The motorist may see the pedestrians, but he can never be sure which way they are going to turn. If he meets another vehicle just as he is about to pass a hiker, it may be impossible for him to turn out without striking one of them.

Begging for Rides.

"The habit of asking for rides should also be discouraged. Police in a number of cities have often issued warnings against the practice. Most motorists would be glad to give pedestrians an occasional lift, but the habit of asking for rides has been so much abused that many drivers as a matter of self-protection refuse all requests to give strangers a ride. Parents should be urged to caution their children against asking for rides. The practice is exceedingly dangerous when youngsters stand in the traveled portion of the street or highway and signal for a ride."

Pedestrians Involved.

An analysis of the motor vehicle accidents made for the recent Hoover safety conference showed that pedestrians were involved in 29,982 out of 47,128 accidents reported in the state of New York in 1925, and that of 1,891 persons killed, 1,155 were pedestrians. The report further shows that 50 per cent of the motor vehicle accidents and 65 per cent of the fatalities occurred on straight, level roads.

Adjusting Motometer Is Rather Difficult Task

It is a common opinion that the proper way to collect the fluid in the indicating tube of the motometer, if it becomes separated, is to stick the stem of the instrument in boiling water. This is an erroneous opinion, as it will never gather the fluid. The fluid is separated due to the fact that the instrument was left lying on its side and air bubbles formed. It remains separated until it is restored to perfect working order, even though the instrument is put in an upright position.

This is correctly accomplished by holding the motometer in an upright position and quickly tapping the bottom of the instrument on the spare tire of the car until the liquid is gathered.

a carpentering class of San Diego (Calif.) school have built this unique dummy and firmly implanted it in the middle of the street. At first glance it appears to be a policeman holding aloft the warning sign.

Cost of Running a Car Not Fixed by Cylinders

Engineers have debated the relative cost of operation of an eight-cylinder motor as against the six. Here is the comment of one expert: "The expense of running a motor doesn't depend so much on the number of cylinders as it does on the number of cubic inches of piston displacement.

"Take a given piston displacement and divide it up any way you want to, into two cylinders, four cylinders, six or eight cylinders and you will use just about the same amount of gas.

"Of course, the greater the number of cylinders, the more overlapping of power impulses occurs and the smoother the operation of the motor. But don't make the mistake of thinking that additional cylinders mean additional expense, unless the piston displacement is increased."

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

The mythical "man in the street" is no myth to the driver who is trying to keep his record clean.

Seek Elusive Elements in Dead Sea Waters

The Dead sea is the latest locale of the search for the two elements still missing from the chemist's periodic table. The high concentration of salts in this body of water caused J. Newton Friend of the Municipal Technical school of Birmingham, England, to consider the possibility of their containing either eka-caesium or eka-iodine, the names assigned to the elusive elements.

Diffractionations of samples of the water were accordingly carried out and the final diffractionation products submitted to X-ray analysis, but unfortunately the spectrum lines that would reveal the presence of either the one or the other failed to show up. Traces of the element strontium, however, were found, the presence of which had never before been recorded in any previous analyses of Dead sea water.—Science Service Bulletin.

Train Wrecked by Buffalo

Railroaders working the 600 miles of lines in the volcanic island of Java often encounter wild animals and in some instances disaster results. While a train was crossing a high bridge, it crashed into a herd of wild water buffaloes. The locomotive toppled into the river and 25 persons were killed. Shortly afterward, near the same bridge, a buffalo charged into a passenger train and derailed the locomotive, killing the engineer and injuring the fireman.

A REAL PHILANTHROPIST

An unusual example of unselfishness and and philanthropy was that shown by Jeremiah Smith of Boston, who has just finished his difficult task of putting Hungary on a sound financial basis, by virtue of his appointment by the League of Nations as financial commissioner for that country.

When Mr. Smith called on Premier Bethlen to take his final leave, he was handed a check for $1000,000 as salary for his two years of ardous and effective work for the Hungarian people. Mr. Smith handed back the check and said: "Give it to charity; your poor need it more than I do."

The premier insisted that the money was due for his splendid service. "The only compensation I desire for my work is the appreciation of the Hungarian people." said Mr. Smith, definately declining to accept the money. He also refused to be reimursed for his living expenses during his two years stay in Budapest, although he is by no means a wealthy man.

The work of Jeremiah Smith in Hungary has been little short of marvelous. From a chaotic condition of national finances he has in two years put the goverment on a sound and self suastaining basis. When his labors were finished he was hailed by the Hungarian parliment as the savior of the country.

With a fine sense of propriety, the Hungarian goverment deposited the returned $100,000 as "The Jeremiah Smith Hungarian Scholarship Fund." which will enable two worthy Hungarian students to study and travel in the United States each year.

SAFER AIRPLANES

Cntinued research and experiments in the effort to produce airplanes of greater stability and safety appear to be meeting with excellent success.

One of the latest engineering triumphs is reported from London, where Captain G. T. R. Hill has been engaged in construction and tests of a tailless machine, which has undergone several modifications during the last three years.

In a recent dispatch very flattering reports of his success were given. The perfected airplane was proven laterally stable at all speeds; if the control stick were released when side-slipping it immediately returned to the center and the machine assumed a level keel; it would fly with feet off the rudder bar, and if this were kicked over and released it retured to the central position and a steady straight flight was resumed. In many other ways the performance of the machine was remarkable and landing proved so easy that it seemed impossible to make a bad landing.

One of the great problems of airplane engineers is to secure greater safety, and the steady developements being made in this direction indicate that the time is not far distant when aerial travel may be made as safe as that on the water, or by land.

Kenneth Rawson, 16-year-old Chicago lad, who accompanied the McMillan expedition to the Artic last year, will make a second visit to the for North with the explorer this summer.

FAILINGS OF THE GREAT

It has become quite common of late for authors and critics to dig into the private lives of great men with a view to exposing their human frailties. There can be no particular objection to this, so long as it is not attempted to belittle the service these men have rendered to mankind.

Every man and woman has certain defects of character, and this has always been so. It is further fact that some of those who have contributed most to civilization have been guilty of moral offences which would be sternly condemned today.

As a matter of history, many of the world's greatest leaders have led reprehensible private lives, as measured by present day ideas and standards. It even may be asserted that in the case of the very higest types of genius this has been the rule rather than the exception

But in estimating the permanent place which should be accorded these men in the esteem of the world, only the service which they rendered to humanity should be considered. A recent writer well expresses this idea thus:

"Every leader must be tested not by his private conduct, but by his public behaviour. Did he serve well his day and generation? If he did all else will be forgotton."

CRIME IS ORGANIZED

That crime in the United States is becoming a highly organized business is evident from disclosures made in various parts of the country. Operations are carried on under the direction of keen master minds, whose plans are made and executed with a skill worthy of a better purpose. A typical "crime corporation" is reported from Chicago, where several members of the gang are under arrest.

Operating an automobile agency on Ashland avenue, the head of the ring carries a number of new cars. Members of the gang steal nearly new automobiles and bring them in to the chief's garage, where they are polished up and a new number substituted. Then they are shipped to towns in nearby states, where other members of the gang also operate agencies and dispose of them. It is said that the head of the thieving organization has paid more than $40,000 for lawyers to aid in squaring matters with people to whom stolen cars have been sold.

In other lines of banditry and lawlessness the same sort of orgnization exists. Encouraged no doubt, by the laxity of law enforcement, thousands have deliberately embarked upon a life of crime, lured by the financial gains to be secured at a minimum risk of apprehension and punishment.

The individual criminal has always presented a serious problem. Organized crime is an even greater menace to society, and will increase unless means shall be devise l to insure more certain, swift and adequate punishment for the horde of criminals operating throughout the land.

Pauline Bell, 13-year-old girl of Clarkson, Ky., won the 1926 national spelling bee in Washington, receiving two gold medals and $1,000 in gold. Betty Robinson of South Bend, Ind., was second, but lost to Pauline by missing the word "cerise."

SCRAPS OF PAPER

It is disheartening to witness the crumbling of hopes for universal peace, but it is futile to ignore them. Although the situation is as yet not hopeless, it appears that the League of Nations must eventually go the way of all other idealistic enterprises for the pacification of mankind.

Treaties pledging security, agreements providing for arbitration of differences between nations, pacts excluding hideous methods of warfare —all these have been solemnly entered into in the past. But with what results?

Experience has proven over and over again that among the most advanced nations of a boasted Christian civilization the cynical slogan, "necessity knows no law," still prevails.

Long before the World War the integrity of Belgium was agreed to by he European powers, including Germany; all the great powers agreed in 1899 to refrain from the use of poisonous gases; the destruction of helpless non-combatants was universally banned by common consent. Yet Germany invaded Belgium; she began the use of poisonous gases at Ypres; she destroyed non-combatants in submarine and aerial warfare. Nearly every treaty or convention made by Germany became a "scrap of paper" at the command of necessity. Other nations have not been blameless in this respect by any means.

In 1922, at the Naval Arms Reduction Conference, the great powers again agreed to refrain from the use of gases in war, yet the United States and all the rest are working with feverish haste to devise more effective and terrible agencies of gas warfare than ever before.

Reverting to the League of Nations Brizil has withdrawn. Spain may do so, the admission of Germany is still engaged in a selfish controversy regarding seats in the Council. Not a single disturbing element has been eliminated from world politics since the World war, while many new ones have been created.

Treaties look fine in print, but when the urge of necessity comes they usually prove to be only "scraps of paper."

"POWER TRUST" MISNOMER

There has been quite a lot of loose talk and writing of late regarding "power trusts," due to consolidations and intreconnections of electric companies and their lines covering large sections of the country.

The use of the word "trust" in this connection is misleading. In the popular mind, a "trust" is a company that has been organized for the purpose of destroying competition, and presumably to increase prices for the commodity or service it has to sell.

Every well informed person knows that in this day of business efficiency no public utility has any competion in the ordinary sense. No town under sane management has two competing other similar utilities. Each of these enterprises has a "monopoly" in the sense that it has no competitor serving the same territory be it one small city, or several states.

The public in every state is protected by a public service commission, elected by the people, with full authority to regulate rates and conditions of service. The public service commissions have the duty of seeing that the companies render efficient service at reasonable rates, and they are protecting the interests of the public in a manner that is generally satisfactory. No human device for the regulation of such enterprises has better served the purpose for which it was intended.

Through interconnecting systems great economies of operation are possible, surplus power in one locality may be sent to relieve a shortage in another, and extension of service to additional communities is facilitated. The absorption of weak local companies by strong, efficient ones invariably has been followed by a betterment of service and a lowering of rates. The public has secured benefits from these consolidations in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

RECORD NON-STOP FLIGHT

To France goes the credit for the latest record-breaking distance non-stop airplane flight, in which the Arrachar brothers, one a captain and the other a sergeant major in the French army, flew from Paris to Basra, on the Persian Gulf, a distance of 2,800 miles, without a landing. Twenty-six and one-half hours were consumed in the flight.

Even this magnificent feat was less than the airmen had aimed at. They carried fuel to last forty hours and had hoped to make India in one jump. Perhaps, as the New York Times, suggests, "it was the human machine that gave out." But be that as it may, it was a great flight, exceeding by nearly 300 miles the longest previous record, that of Lieutenants Macready and Kelley of the United States army, who flew 2,520 miles in 26 hours and 50 minutes without a stop, in 1923.

Aviators have stayed in the air much longer than that, but not in straightaway flights.

Lieutenants Smith and Richter of the United States army remained in the air 37 hours and 15 minutes, circling over San Diego, in 1923, and the French aviators Coupet and Drouhin exceeded that record by 45 minutes over a small circuit in 1924.

Next on the program is the scheduled attempt of Rene Fronck, French super-ace, to fly from New York to Paris during the present year. All true sportsmen and admirers of daring will wish him success.

An old epitaph, considered funny by our grandparents, is going the rounds again, and is reproduced for the benefit of the present geeration: "Sacred to the memory of Eben Harvey, who departed this life suddenly by a cow kicking him in the back lot, on September 15, 1843. Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

When a co-operative life isurance society was organized in an Arkansas town 45 years ago, three applicants were rejected as bad physical risks. All three are still living, while every one of the members admitted to the society are dead. Another illustration of the truth that "you never can tell."

An admission fee of $5 is charged by the Greek goverment to foreign visitors who wish to see the famous Parthenon in Athens, the finest ruins of a Greek temple in the world.

Colma News Notes

Miss Dolores Barron is spending her vacation in Los Angeles.

Stephen Fischer spent several days of last week at the Haubrich summer home in Capitola by the Sea.

E. Maffei, of Lomita Park, was a Colma visitor one day of last week.

Miss Annette Lucey and a party of friends motored to Santa Cruz recently, where they spent the day.

TO PROTECT THE DEER

THE watershed properties of Spring Valley Water Company in San Mateo County, comprising some thirty-six square miles, have become a great animal refuge.

This is largely due to the policy of "predatory animal control" pursued by Spring Valley in co-operation with the Federal Government and the California Fish and Game Commission.

Owing to this policy of "predatory animal control," and to the fact that Spring Valley, with rigid firmness, has prohibited hunting, deer have multiplied over all these square miles of watershed. They are very tame, and their presence is part of the charm of the countryside.

Spring Valley Water Company recognizes first of all the obligation of protecting the watershed, but also recognizes the high importance of protecting the deer. Deer are decreasing in California wherever hunting is unrestricted, and a deer refuge such as Spring Valley maintains is of very great benefit not only for the present but for the future.

Spring Valley Water Company proposes to continue, without the slightest let-down, its policy of protecting the deer on the San Mateo watershed. It will have, as always in the past, the hearty help of the authorities, Federal, State and County.

To their credit be it said, most hunters are sportsmen and respect the law. But at this time, the beginning of the deer season, notice is served on the thoughtless and the malicious that this Company has the cooperation of the Fish and Game Commission, that the watershed is being thoroughly patrolled by extra watchmen, and that hunters will be arrested and prosecuted.

IMPETUS GIVEN AIRPORT PLAN ON THE PENINSULA

Added impetus was given to the plan of San Francisco locating its airport on the peninsula, somewhere between South San Francisco and Burlingame, when an informal opinion was handed down last week from the San Francisco city attorney's office that the city has the right to buy land outside of its own limits for airport purposes, provided that the port is used as a terminal for one or more intercity airlines.

There is $100,000 in the budget to be applied toward purchase of a site for an airport.

Walter J. Dodd, assistant city attorney, who prepared the opinion, likened the airport to the terminals used by a railway. He said that if one or more airlines contracted with the city to supply terminal facilities for their use, such a termial would be a public utility. The statutes of 1911, he said, specifically provided that any municipality might acquire land for a public utility, even though such land were outside its own corporate limits. Dold indicated a government agreement to use the field for the air mail planes would give it the status of a utility.

THE CAUSE OF HEADACHES

Science has made great strides in the last few years, and many of the old-fashioned ideas have been discarded in the light of new discoveries. The American public is rapidly being educated to inquire into the cause of things, particularly ailments. The people who formerly took the questionable pills thrown on porches and accompanied by circulars, have prohibited the practice and now seek to remove the cause of their indisposition.

Frequent headaches are now found to be a symptom or high blood pressure, a very dangerous condition, known in the medical world to have the highest death rate of any chronic disease. The accumulated poisons in the blood are the cause of this serious disease, and it can be combatted only by the use of scientific means. For years physicians have prescribed a stay at some mineral springs as the only remedy for this condition, and this means was only for those who had sufficient capital to make the trip and be away from their business for a long period of time. Not being able to afford this, many people suffered indefinitely.

All this has been changed, for the specialized treatment is available to everyone, through the Radium Ore Revigator, which transforms ordinary drinking water into a radio-active drink that rivals the beneficial qualities of the most famous mineral springs. Physicians of the highest standing, as well as the U. S. Government, have endorsed the Radium Ore Revigator for the treatment of high blood pressure. The main office of the Radium Ore Revigator Company is located at 697 Sutter street, their phone number being Prospect 3331, and we are glad to recommend this widely known concern to our readers. —Adv.

TIRE SERVICE AND TIRE PRICES

A Ford with good tires will give much more enjoyment and service than a Rolls-Royce with bad tires. The wise thing to do is to go to some dependable tire company from time to time and let them keep your tires in good shape.

The Cartman Tire Exchange, located at 639 Van Ness avenue, San Francisco, whose phone number is Graystone 6026, can give you the best service of this nature. They handle all makes of tires, and have ample equipment for taking care of them. Two particular brands that they are specializing in are the "Zev" and "Mogen" balloon type. One of the outstanding features of these two brands is the price, which is far below any offered by competitive concerns. The 29x4.40 (for Fords) Balloon type, can be had at the astonishing low price of $9.90 each, and the Mogel can be bought for even less in the larger Balloon sizes. Another remarkable reduction is that of a gray tube at 95 cents each.

This firm not only sells new tires, but will exchange old ones as part payment on new ones. The best of service and more miles for your tires is what they have for you. We suggest that you visit the Cartman Tire Exchange and have your car equipped with tires it needs. Then it will no longer be necessary for you to worry about them. Your tire troubles will be over for many miles, and you will have at your service agreeable, competent men. They will advise you on questions pertaining to tires and make it possible for you to get much more mileage. Just drive your car in (free drive-in service), and leave the rest to them. —Adv.

TO DRIVE AWAY THE BLUES SEE "OH, WHAT A NURSE"

If you want to drive the blues away, go and see Syd Chaplin in "Oh, What a Nurse," to be shown at the State Theatre Saturday, July 31. It is a scream from start to finish. There will also be a tug of war team picked from Daly City to compete against the Excelsior on Wednesday, August 4, at Eddie's Advershow, so let's have a few huskies from Daly City walk away with the prize. A girls' beauty show will also be held at the State Theatre, and all the beauties from Daly City are requested to enter their names at the box office.

HERITAGE OF ALL

The only real foundation for human life is Mother Earth, and unfortunate indeed is the person who is confined to the city during the beautiful summer months, when they could with very little cost and trouble own a lovely cabin site in Woodside.

Woodside has been known for many years for the beautiful homes of wealthy people that adorned the wooden hillsides of this picturesque suburb. To own a cabin site in Woodside, however, one does not need to be in the moneyed class.

Nestling on the shores of Searsville Lake, cabin sites are offered by the owner of this property, Mr. R. Coombs, located in Suite 1101, Hobart building, whose phone number is Kearny 8768. These lots range from $200 up, and terms can be arranged as low as $25 down, and balance on easy monthly payments. If so desired, one can obtain lots with an abundance of Redwood, Oak and Madrone trees.

Located about 27 miles from this locality, the property can be reached in less than an hour, and yet it is still far enough away from the city for one to enjoy the beauty and the splendor of the great out-doors. What could be nicer than to go down there over the week end, pitch your tent, get out the old pipe, and easily sit around, to look over the shores of Searsville Lake, and see the distant lights of Berkeley, Oakland and Redwood City.

Drive down the highway, go to Redwood City, and then turn to the right at Five Points to Woodside, turn left at the Portola road, and then drive about three miles to the property. There are signs on the right hand side just before entering theh Portola road.

One way to achieve popularity is to listen attentively to tiresome people, if you care to pay that price.

When arraigned in a New York court, Stephen Shipsky, aged 17, said: "Whoever said I committed sixty-four robberies in two years is a liar. I'm only guilty of thirty-five."

BOOSTS COMMUNITY BETTERMENT WORK

Community betterment work in all of the 10,250 posts of the American Legion throughout the nation is being prompted and increased by a campaign recently launched by the National Americanism commission of the Legion, which operates a community betterment bureau for advice and guidance to posts in community service work.

At least one act of unselfish service to the community each year, is the motto which National Com. John R. McQuigg has laid down for every post in the entire organization.

A survey recently made by the Americanism commission indicated, according to Frank C. Cross, director, that some 4,000 Legion posts are now carrying on work distinctly and exclusively of a community betterment character. An additional 2,000 posts, he said, are engaged in projects partly for the benefit of the post itself and partly for the benefit of the community, according to the results of the survey.

Where posts are already carrying on community betterment work, Commander McQuigg urges that they undertake an expansion of their programs. Every post is called upon to join in the work in a spirited determination to do some service worth while for its local community.

A feature of the Americanism commission's campaign to increase this type of work among posts was a referendum held by the post in its local community to give the citizens of the community an opportunity to suggest what, in their opinion, is the community activity in which the post can best engage.

Some fifty community betterment activities, covering the entire field and falling into the general classes of civic improvement, juvenile activities, education, recreation and public education, have been carried on by posts.

Baseball Contests for Boys Planned

The first "Junior world series" baseball contests ever to be held will be played this year on October 11, 13 and 14 at Philadelphia. The world series for boys' baseball teams will be the culmination of the American Legion's nation-wide baseball program for boys, which was launched this year by the Legion's Americanism commission.

Championship teams of four regions, the Far West, the Middle West, Central and Eastern regions, will play off the junior world series. The play will be on the mornings of the above dates and will take place during the national convention of the Legion at Philadelphia, October 11 to 15.

The winning team will be given a suitable trophy identifying it as the world's champion boys' baseball team.

Organization of the Junior All-American Baseball league was authorized at the last national convention of the American Legion. The National Amateur Athletic federation co-operated with the Legion in launching the boys' league. The plans provide for championship contests in local communities, in congressional districts, in states, in sections, in regions and finally in the junior world series at the Legion convention.

More than 2,000 boys' teams have been entered in the league throughout the nation and many hundreds more are expected to enter.

Teams now organized under the sponsorship of churches, industrial plants, commercial firms, boy scouts, etc., are co-operating with the Legion's baseball program and are entering the league.

"Good sportsmanship among our American boys as it relates to and makes good citizenship is the chief motive behind the Legion's baseball program," declared Frank C. Cross, director of the national Americanism commission of the Legion.

The Playground and Recreation Association of America is co-operating in the plan and recently contacted 800 interested persons in several hundred cities, urging them to co-operate in forming leagues.

Believes Every Eligible Pole Should Join Legion

Ignace Jan Paderewski, world-famous pianist and Polish patriot, believes that every Pole who is eligible should join the American Legion.

In a message to National Commander John R. McQuigg, Mr. Paderewski said:

"My opinion is that all those of my blood who either have been normally drafted or who voluntarily enlisted in the United States army should now join the American Legion. They should join it not merely on account of material advantages but for higher reasons.

"The lofty ideals which inspired and guided throughout history the best and noblest among our ancestry are precisely those for which the American Legion stands and will stand forever."

RADIO

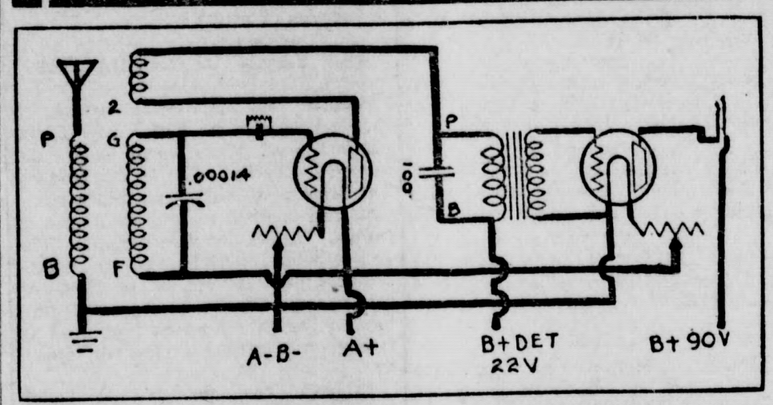

Diagram of a Simply Constructed Short-Wave Receiver That Can Pick up Programs Under 150 Meters.

By LEO HUGO KRUGER,
In the Chicago Evening Post.

If you haven't been listening to KDKA regularly (I mean by direct broadcast) then you are missing something. Of course a lot of folks have heard about short waves, but very few have ever listened to a program broadcast on short waves. (I mean direct, not rebroadcast.) KDKA has been offering some real programs the last few months, and if you are the kind of fan that likes to reach out for DX every night and you are willing to build a radio set just to be able to hear one DX station any time it is on the air, and also without the customary static read on.

All that is necessary is to construct a two-tube set, which should not cost more than $15. The diagram clearly explains the different connections. The main parts are the B.-T. old-style short wave tuner and the .00014 Karras straight-line frequency condenser. The rest can be made up from odds in the old junk box.

Ranges From 50 to 150 Meters.

Stations should come around 25 or 30, using the Karras condenser (an old-style .00025 condenser can be used), but KDKA comes in close to the end of the dial, somewhere between 4 and 10.

After the set works well another stage may be added. But two tubes should be sufficient to put KDKA on the loud speaker. The set has a range for 50 to 150 meters.

Between 50 and 75 there is a lot of code, this is the amateurs' own 80-meter band, and when one knows the code it is nothing new when you should happen to hear one amateur talking to another 7,000 miles away.

Long Aerial Not Essential.

One more word about the set: A long aerial is not essential. I've picked up KDKA without either aerial or ground, but I recommend for the best all-around use about 65 feet. If your aerial is too long you might hear harmonics from local stations, but by putting a .00025 fixed condenser in series with the aerial the harmonics should become very weak.

Also, if the loud speaker or phone tips are reversed a steady ticking will be heard.

The list of parts needed:

One short-wave tuner, B.-T. old style.
One .00014 straight line frequency condenser.
One .00025 fixed condenser.
One grid leak.
Two 25-ohm rheostats (amperite may be substituted in last stage).
One .001 fixed condenser.
One 4-to-1 ratio, or higher, audio transformer.
One single-circuit jack.
Two 201A UV or UX tubes.
Two sockets.

The panel may be 7 by 14 inches and the baseboard should be of practically the same measurements.

How Condenser, Choke Circuit Helps Music

Loud-speaker reproduction may often be improved by introducing a choke coil and high-capacity condenser in the output circuit of the radio receiver.

The method of connecting is quite simple. The choke coil, which should have an inductance value between 50 and 100 henrys, is connected across the output terminals of the receiving set. One terminal of the loud speaker is connected to a terminal of the choke. The other connection to the speaker connects to one side of the high-capacity condenser, which should have a value of four microfarads. The second terminal of the condenser connects to the other connection to the choke coil. In reality, the condenser and loud speaker are connected in series with each other and in parallel with the choke coil.

A in the diagram shows the usual method of connecting the loud speaker. B shows the loud speaker connected in the circuit, using a condenser choke coil output system.

In addition to improving the quality of reproduction, such a device facilitates the use of higher plate voltage on the plates of the audio-frequency amplifier tubes.

Its purpose is to allow the direct current applied to the plates to pass through the choke coil, and the alternating current or modulated signals to pass through the loud speaker. Incidentally, this arrangement will insure against burning out of the loud speaker.

The choke coil used should be capable of passing a current of at least thirty milliamperes.

Improve Regeneration

A choke coil having about 120 turns wound on a one-inch diameter tube and connected in series with the plate circuit of a regenerative receiver often will make the set oscillate more easily and steadily.

Recharge Dry Cell

To recharge a dry cell, bore two holes one-fourth inch in diameter and three inches deep on opposite sides of the center connection. Then fill the holes with cider vinegar and plug up with paraffin.

Hints on Testing of Wet and Dry Batteries

Never test a "B" battery with an ammeter. You may ruin the ammeter and you will certainly shorten the life of the battery by subjecting it to so heavy a current output. Placing an ammeter across a battery is the same as short-circuiting it with a wire. Use a voltmeter.

To test dry cells you may use an ammeter for just an instant. The cell should show at least 25 amperes if it's in good shape. The voltmeter should show full 1½ volts, even if the battery be badly shelf-worn. Never use the ammeter if you can help it and then only for a fraction of a second, and use it only on large dry cells meant for "A" battery work.

For the storage battery, the only test of any real value is that made by a hydrometer. It shows the gravity of the liquid (electrolyte) and tells the exact point between "full charge" and "dead battery."

Only a "high resistance" voltmeter is useful to test the voltage at which vacuum tubes are lighted.

Fixed Resistance and Condensers Aid Quality

With certain audio amplifying transformers the connection across the secondaries of fixed resistors of about 250,000 or 500,000 ohms value works wonders in clarifying reception in general and in reducing the exaggeration of high notes. Fixed condensers of .0005 or 001 mfd. in the same position have a similar effect, while combinations of condensers and resistors often turn a hitherto poor amplifier into a fairly acceptable one.

Resistance and condensers so employed are not infallible cures for distortion due to bad amplifier construction or design, but in many cases they bring about enough improvement to warrant their cost and installation.

To Determine What Is Cause of Receiver Noise

To determine if the noise in the radio receiver is due to a fault in the set or is actually interference coming in on the air, disconnect the aerial and ground wires, and if there is no reduction in the intensity of the noise while the broadcast music is stopped by the disconnection, the probability is that the source of the noise is in the receiving set, in the form of a loose connection, faulty batteries, or defective tube. Also shake the ground wire near the connection, to make sure that the noise is not caused by a bad connection.

To Tune Short Waves

If your set won't tune to the short wavelengths, tap the secondary of the inductance coil on the filament side by means of a tap-switch arrangement that will enable you to cut in and out at will.

A Ground Substitute

A wire fence often makes an excellent substitute for a ground. Its action is that of an efficient counterpoise.

DAY DREAMS

"We're kept pretty busy these lovely summer afternoons," said the Day Dream workers.

"It's so sunny and sleepy and wonderful out of doors and if people don't actually go to sleep they want more day dreams than they seem to want when it is cold and bracing.

"In the winter they're busy hurrying this way and that, and the cold weather doesn't make them want to dream so much of their time away.

"Of course we have to do a good deal in the winter, too. Day dreams are always wanted to a certain extent.

"But in the summer we are very, very busy.

"Ah, we must get to work."

The Day Dream workers were so prettily dressed. They wore coats of cool green material and trousers of soft brown color.

Their caps were of blue such as the color of the sky is blue on lovely summer days.

And edging their caps were fluffy white touches—just as you see patches of fluffy white clouds here and there in the blue of the summer sky.

They worked in a field which was surrounded by woods and which was away from the places where people were.

Now and again people walked to this field but not often. When they did the Day Dreams hid themselves behind the tall trees in the woods and waited for the people to lie down and take naps or talk in sleepy voices, or for them to get up and go off again.

But most of the time the Day Dream workers were by themselves here.

There were sweet ferns all about and a few little trees that looked as though some day they might be forest trees.

And there were many butterflies and bright colored insects and humming bumblebees buzzing and chattering and singing in low, sleepy voices.

Sometimes the Day Dream workers sent their Day Dreams in little packages which these butterflies and buzzing insects took with them to the places where the people were.

In Little Packages.

They scattered them about and people received them and began dreaming day dreams.

Oh, such interesting day dreams as were in these packages.

There were dreams of becoming famous, there were dreams of leading the school in games, and in lessons and in popularity.

There were dreams of travel, there were dreams of adventure, there were dreams of hopes and wishes and all were coming true.

Oh, the Day Dream workers knew how to make the most wonderful of day dreams.

"They will come true if people will help to make them come true," the Day Dream workers said.

"Ah," said one of the Day Dream workers, "I have a most beautiful day dream here. I do so enjoy wrapping it up.

"It just seemed to make itself. I hardly had anything to do with it at all."

"What is it?" asked the other Day Dream workers.

"Oh, it's a lovely day dream," the Day Dream worker said. "It is filled with a dream of happiness and love. It is a dream that has all the hopes in it for thrusting aside hate and jealousy and mean speeches and horrid teasing.

"It is a dream of good nature and good spirits and laughter and merriment and unselfishness.

"And it's all wrapped up in love. Just take a peep at it."

And there it was, an exquisite dream which could come true and it was wrapped in a pink edged little cloud material which was labeled Love!

Closer Relative

Robert and Roland are twins. Bobby is sick in the hospital with appendicitis. He can only see a few people each day.

His sister, Eleanor, and his twin, Rolly, were scrapping over which one should see him first. There was a great deal of argument. Finally Eleanor was about to give the final thrust, "I am oldest."

"Well, what if you are?" comes the quick retort. "I guess I am a closer relative than you are."

WOMAN CONQUERS FEARS

Husband Delighted and Home Happier

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "The young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results from its use." In describing her condition before taking the Compound she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me. One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. My condition made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask him, "How is housekeeping?" and he says, "It is just like being in Heaven!" Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

Had to Drink Own Blood

Fearful ceremonies were connected with entry into the Secret Society of the Double Cross in Hungary, an order of which George Hir, Hungarian deputy, was once a prominent member, says a writer for the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Members had to drink their own blood to seal the entry to the association and swear to oaths which are said to have meant innumerable murders.

REAL VALUES

In this day and age when conservative men and women are continually seeking investments of a reliable certainty which will increase in value, the realtor is doing more than his share in meeting the demands of such people. Peninsula property has proven one of the best investments in the vicinity of San Francisco.

Among the finest of these sub-divisions, "White Oaks," and "Oak Park," have been opened by the Koff Realty Co. of San Francisco, located at 25 Taylor St., in the Golden Gate Theatre building, whose phone number is Prospect 8506. Desirable building lots ranging from $959.00 each, and up, are offered by this firm. These lots have been proven to be a good investment for any one desiring a summer home down the Peninsula, or wish to make the investment for speculative purposes. The new Alameda highway, which will run along the northern side of the property, will enable the buyer to reach the property from both sides. Work is being done on the new Dumbarton bridge, which will be opened about September 1st. There are sixty Southern Pacific trains, and 12,000 automobiles passing daily both "White Oaks" and "Oak Park." A number of beautiful homes have been built on this property, which enhance its beauty and value.

We take pleasure in this edition in referring our readers to this well-known concern, and assure them that any transactions they have with the Koff Realty Co. will be to their entire satisfaction. —Adv.

Princes Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, baby daughter of the Duke of York and granddaughter of King George V., was christened in a robe of old lace which had been worn at the christening of the King and the Prince of Wales.

A MODERN NECESSITY

One of the greatest benefits of modern times is the up-to-date laundry. The hours formerly spent in hard, unpleasant work are now given to womankind, free from all the drudgery of washday, and the exhausting labor of ironing piles of clothes every week has been banished from the life of every modern housewife. The laundry has in this way added two days to the week of the present day woman.

The scientific cleansing processes of the modern laundry assure the highest quality of perfection in cleanliness purity and finish. The Favorite Laundry, located at 2409 California St. whose phone number is West 3760 is one of the finest examples of what a laundry should be. Their equipment is the latest known in the laundry industry, and this enables them to turn out the very best class of laundry work. This means that the clothes are brought back in all their original richness, means sweet-smelling, clean white linen, and that the most delicate garments may be sent to them in perfect safety.

They offer a complete service for all your washing, and every piece is returned spotlessly clean and beautifully finished at a nominal cost. Shirt and collar service is a specialty with them. Men who appreciate collar comfort and style send their collars to them, as a correctly laundered starched collar gives a neat and well-dressed appearance to any man. Their special facilities for cleaning fine blankets, comforts and curtains insure the finest kind of finished work.

This modern and progressive laundry solicits trial of your work, and we believe you can do no better than entrust your work to its care.—(Adv.)

Electric frost alarms were used in California orange groves last winter. They should also be sounded before some vaudeville acts come on.

The California Highway Commission has authorized the reconstruction of .23 of a mile of state highway through Hillsborough, at an estimated cost of $7,000. Readiness

ALL over the then-known world the runners and mounted messengers of ancient Assyria bore the decrees and edicts of their rulers. Trained for fleetness and endurance, these message bearers of a vanished empire stood at their posts, stripped for the task, prepared for instant dispatch of whatever was given them to speed to distant points.

The universal message bearer now is the telephone. Its nation-wide range has come about through a far-flung system of wires, cables, switchboards and supplementary apparatus. Through the cooperation of a vast army of men and women it daily transmits the thoughts and desires of millions.

It is because of unceasing inspection, watchfulness, coordination and all else that makes for instant readiness that Americans today, anywhere, can talk to one another, any time.

In order to prevent secret treaties, why not employ women exclusively as diplomats.

A wise judge recently ruled that what women wears is immaterial. Anyone can see through that.

We read of a new roller skating rink, "capable of seating 2,000 people," probably intended only for beginners.

There is a certain kind of mushroom which is said to produce intoxication almost identical with that caused by whiskey.

People who marry under the influence of puppy love are likely to lead a dog's life.
